FATHER DAMIEN: HAWAII'S SAINT

This intriguing full-color manga-style story chronicles Father Damien's childhood and his eventual journey to Moloka'i, Hawai'i. Damien's world-famous story is told through vivid images that depict the works and achievements of this miracle worker who is to be canonized as a Catholic saint in October 2009. Available Fall 2009.

PB, 8.5" x 11", Item #307X, $14.95

ARTS AND CRAFTS OF MICRONESIA:
TRADING WITH TRADITION

Barbara Wavell

This pictorial driven book provides an in-depth ethnographic survey of items made from Micronesians using traditional and cultural materials. Such items represented in detail are carvings, mats, fans, statues, clothing, jewelry and baskets. The descriptive text, combined with photos, represents works from the islands of Yap, Chuuk, Saipan, Palau and the Marshall Islands, portrayed in a historical and cultural 20th century context. Available Spring 2010.

PB, 8" x 8", Item #3096, $22.95

BUSS LAUGH
Edited by Lee Tonouchi

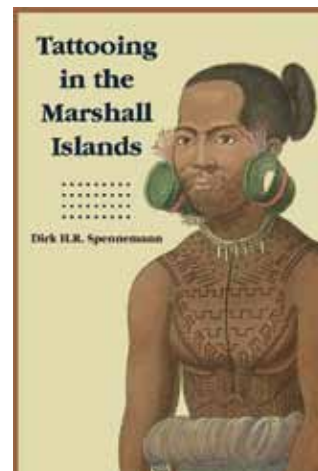

Nationally recognized Pidgin author Lee Tonouchi, the "Pidgin Guerilla," presents a varied collection of prose and poetry reflecting Hawaii's distinct diversity and cultural representation. This collaborative compilation is another testament to Tonouchi's fight to have Pidgin recognized as defining language that's representative of Hawaii's local peoples. Through many humorous anecdotes, this book's collective representation, stories from both well-known and obscure authors, literally depicts the cultural and ethnographic make-up of Hawaii. Available Fall 2009.

PB, 5.5" x 8.5", Item #3088, $12.95

TATTOOING IN THE MARSHALL ISLANDS

Dirk R. Spennemann

The first scholarly compilation on the history, progression and demise of the traditionally intricate art of Marshallese tattooing. This book richly documents this type of tattooing as an art, describing its incredible ornamental and elaborate execution. In addition, the text also portrays the conventional social context in which tattooing needs to be seen, along with where and why tattoos are specifically placed. Available Fall 2009.

PB, 6" x 9", Item #310X, $24.95

THE HULA
Jerry Hopkins
Edited by Dr. Amy Stillman

Reissue of the classic by Jerry Hopkins. The hula is not only the visitor's delight, but also Hawai'i's most direct link to its Polynesian origins. Contemporary students heed ancient ritual religiously, and hula schools engage in fierce competitions. Hula masters are revered figures. The hula has become a symbol of the Hawaiians' ethnic pride. In these pages is a meticulously researched yet colorful examination of the world's most applauded, whistled-at, best known yet most misunderstood dance—its fabled history and its legend-like characters. Available Spring 2010.

PB, 8" x 8", Item #3126, $29.95

ART ON THE ROCKS: A PETROGLYPH JOURNAL
Lynn Cook

What if there was no paper? What if language had never been written down? What would tell history? The answer is rock art, petroglyphs. Petros, the Greek word for stone. Glyphe, meaning carved image. In Hawaiian, ki'i for image, pohaku for stone. Art on the Rocks uniquely illustrates this personal journal, with accurate drawings and descriptions, the 2,000-year old history carved in ancient lava by the first Pacific voyagers – stories that fire the imagination as Pele, the goddess of fire, continues to spread lava across the Big Island. Available Spring 2010.

PB, 5" x 7", Item #3142, $12.95

WAIKIKI TIKI
Phillip S. Roberts

Roberts' personal collection of tiki, ki'i, and like images from around Waikiki parallel the drastic transformation of a place once inhabited and visited by royalty, into the tourist hot-spot it is today. This book is told with an artistic approach to photographically documenting tiki art as an eastern Polynesian carving practice that has etched itself into a popular niche known as Polynesian Pop Art. This book is fascinating for displaying the ever-changing vacation atmosphere of Hawai'i's infamous Waikiki. Available Spring 2010.

PB, 8" x 8", Item #3118, $16.95

THE HEART OF HAWAII: A HULA JOURNAL
Lynn Cook

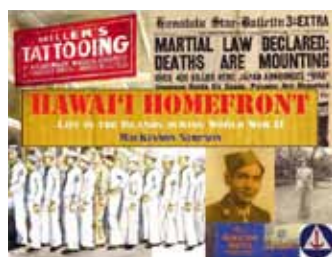

Hula is the heartbeat of Hawai'i; the sound of an ancient chant, the story told by the movements of a graceful dancer. Hula carries the story of each great chief and chiefs, of the Hawaiian monarchs and of the places they lived and loved. The wisdom and wit of the kumu hula, the teachers, and the haumana, the students, is gathered in this journal. Their words tell the story of their desire to preserve and perpetuate hula. They share the spiritual and cultural essence of hula, providing a look at the precious legacy of the only U.S. state with its own language, music and dance. Available Spring 2010.
